NEWSLETTER | SPRING 2016

Sunday, May 22, was an incredibly wonderful day of commitment, dedication and Blessings as our guest celebrant, His Eminence Archbishop Yeznik Petrosian, and our Pastor, Fr. Vasken, collectively offered their blessings upon our ACYOA Seniors 2016 General Assembly and Sports Weekend Committee. Standing over 20 deep, our parish prayed for the success and realization of their two years of hard work preparing to welcome nearly 450 of their peers from around our Diocese.

FROM OUR PASTOR

The following is taken from remarks offered by Fr. Vasken on April 10.

I've been following the many reports all over the Internet this past week trying to learn more about what is taking place within the Artsakh borders during these recent attacks. As I scrolled through various articles, I noticed a series of postings about the many Armenian clergymen who are in the army supporting the men in arms. It reminded me of the wonderful mural on the back wall of our church of St. Vartan's army receiving the blessings of the clergy before heading off to war. I saw photos of 40 or 50 Armenian clergymen marching in group processions side by side with their soldiers; I saw organized and disciplined clergymen; and, as I scrolled on, I started seeing these clergymen in more intimate settings:

- One by one in the trenches of what would be the front lines;
- Holding the hand of the dying;
- Blessing the war-torn remains of someone's son;
- Burying elderly civilians, whose homes were invaded and destroyed.

And I thought how God called each one of these clergymen to serve His children in those dark days. Those clergymen to me are heroes. Those army chaplains have personal encounters with each and every soldier with whom they serve. What they learn from those personal encounters is that all people are the same. No one is more important or more valued than the other because they, too, are children of God. The priests serving on the front lines are heroes in my book.

The priests serving on the front lines are heroes in my book.

Personal encounters are recorded many times throughout the Bible for very good reasons. Pick up a Bible and watch Jesus interact with the sick, the hurting, the grieving and the lost. Pick up a Bible and listen to Him interact by healing the sick, comforting those who grieve and reaching out to the lost and those people that have been forgotten about and marginalized by the world around them. Pick up a Bible and you will realize why so many thousands of people from all walks of life and from every background imaginable followed Him.

In today's encounter, Jesus meets a man named Nicodemus. Nicodemus was one of the most powerful and influential men in all of Israel during this period of time. Nicodemus was a wealthy and powerful religious man yet Nicodemus had a problem. This influential man had a problem that neither he nor his money nor his power could solve. Nicodemus is referred to as a teacher of Israel, but despite all his knowledge, he realized that there were some things he did not know. So one night this well-to-do, politically-connected, well-read man snuck away to meet Jesus and spend time asking Him questions, and because he did that, his life was never the same again.

As he approached Jesus, under the safety of a dark-night sky, the disciples stood up to block his way. "Who are you?" they wanted to know. "What do you want here?" they asked. They were protecting their Lord. They didn't know who Nicodemus was or what he wanted and so they stopped him and judged him knowing nothing about him. But what they didn't realize was that they--the disciples themselves--fell victim to a trap many people fall victim to. They judged Nicodemus without knowing him.

They judged him based solely on his outer appearance. "He isn't one of us. He looks like one of them." So there is a hidden take-away message here for us today. The message is that it does not please God when we judge people by appearance. The disciples imagined Nicodemus, with his wealthy clothes and political power, to be just another one of the over-bearing ruling class in the Jewish society of their day. Instead, here was a man, who came dressed in the clothes of a superior religious leader, who wanted something that all his power and profits couldn't buy him. He was a man who wanted to know how one gets into the Kingdom of Heaven.

I enjoyed reading this story. And most every time I read it, I think about how I greet people when I encounter them for the first time. Do I judge them? Am I open to meeting them? I received an email not too long ago that when I read it, it called out to be shared. The email reads like this: "We all need to be careful not to make snap judgments about people. The man who talks too loudly may be hiding some insecurity. The young woman who is ridiculed by others for not being attractive enough may have a beautiful soul. The person who seems aloof may simply be shy. The person considered unimportant may have the heart of a saint. The boy who was tripped in the hallway is abused at home so give him a break. The girl in school who everyone calls ugly spends an hour every morning putting on makeup hoping her classmates will like her. And the man with that dreadful scar is a veteran and he came home with that scar. We need to be careful about relying on instant judgments and realize that beneath the outer appearance is a child of God. That person has needs and worries just like we do and is loved by God every bit as much as you and I are." It was a thought-provoking email and it says a lot.

This season following Easter is a wonderful opportunity for new beginnings. How we view people can be one of those new beginnings. Imagine the lives that could be bettered if we greeted people in the way Jesus greeted Nicodemus and not in the way His Disciples did. Nicodemus came to Jesus disguised by the dark of night so he would not be judged by his Jewish peers. Instead, he was judged by the disciples. So as we leave our church this morning, keep Nicodemus' story in mind and ask yourself:

- Why do so many people feel comfortable judging others?
- Where is God calling you to be more welcoming to people?
- And where in all of this do you feel you have room to grow?

Part of Nicodemus' story shows us that the true person lies not on the outside but on the inside. Where is God calling you to be more welcoming to His people? Something for all of us to think about.

Fr. Vaahken

It has been an amazing, wonderful, busy spring topped off by the very successful ACYOA General Assembly & Sports Weekend hosted by our own ACYOA Seniors of whom we are extremely proud. We also had our ACYOA Palm Sunday Banquet, Hye M'rtsoom Weekend, Sunday School graduation, hosted Sainly Women's Day and enjoyed a very successful and fun Trinity Summer KickOff, hosted by the family of Aetna Tashjian, in his memory. Our next issue will cover these events and our parish's Pilgrimage to Armenia.

114TH DIOCESAN ASSEMBLY

The 114th Diocesan Assembly was hosted by the St. Gregory of Narek Armenian Church and held at the Renaissance Hotel in Cleveland, OH, from April 28 to April 30. Attending as delegates from Holy Trinity were Der Vasken Kouzouian, Aram Hintlian, James M. Kalustian, Gregory Krikorian, and Gregory A. Kolligian. Jr. Daniel K. Dorian, Jr., attended as Parish Council chairman. There were 125 delegates in attendance representing all the parishes throughout the Diocese. At this year's assembly, there was a new theme introduced entitled "Legacy of Our Martyrs: A Gift to Carry Forward."

At the first and second sessions on Thursday, we heard a message from His Holiness Karekin II, Supreme Patriarch and Catholicos of all Armenians. There was a report on the Clergy Conference, an update from the Legate, and a lengthy report from the Diocesan Council. Also, elections were held for the assembly Tivan, Auditing Committee, Proposals Committee, Nominating Committee, Board of Trustees, and representatives to the National Ecclesiastical Assembly. This year's format was different from prior years. We did not hear individual reports from the Diocesan departments during the general sessions. Instead, there were breakout sessions on Friday where the departments gave presentations and there was an opportunity for delegates to ask questions.

The third session on Friday morning began with worship. The Primate, His Eminence Archbishop Khajag Barsamian, then addressed the assembly and gave his annual "Primate's Message." In his address, the Primate discussed the importance of the 100th anniversary commemoration of the Armenian Genocide and the significance of the canonization of the martyrs to saints. The Primate asked us to consider how the sacrifices of the martyrs inspire today's Armenians. The Primate stated, "The Legacy of our or martyrs is faith. Prayer is a daily experience for Armenians. The characteristics of the Armenian people and the Armenian Church are to be hospitable, to be open and not judgmental. On many controversial issues, we focus on what to do, not on what not to do. We focus on joy and the celebration of life. The Armenian cross is a symbol of life giving power, giving fruit and flowers to the faithful. The spirit of the Armenian Church is to focus on the positive and not dwell on the negative." The Primate's main message is that the genocide, while horrible, left a legacy that all Armenians carry forward.

The Primate's message led into the viewing of a video "Living Legacies." This video kicked off a social media campaign that the Diocese is implementing. One of the main messages of the video is that Armenians did not let the atrocities of the genocide define them. The survivors made new lives for themselves so that the martyrs left a legacy. The question is, "What is your legacy?"

The balance of the morning session was spent in two breakout sessions. There were 3 separate rooms. In room 1, there were presentations by the Diocesan departments of Armenian Studies, Christian Education, Communications, Youth and Young Adult Ministries, and the Zohrab Center. In Room 2, there were presentations by ACEF, Development, Diocesan Legate, FAR, and St. Nersess Seminary. In room 3, there were presentations by ACYOA, Ararat Center, Mission Parishes, Sacred Music, and Women's Guild. In the fourth session on Friday afternoon, there was a report from the Auditing Committee, the ... Armenians did not let the atrocities of the genocide define them.

Diocesan financial report, and Bylaws/ ERA Amendment Report.

At the Friday night Banquet, the Diocese honored Berge Setrakian as Armenian Church member of the Year. There was also an award for "Friend of the Armenians" presented to Dr. Tanner Akcam.

The fifth session on Saturday morning began with worship. There was a report from the Proposals Committee, announcement of the 116th Diocesan Assembly in White Plains, NY, and a report from the Courtesies Committee. There was also a discussion of new business.

As I have done each year, I would like to highlight the topics I feel are important. St. Nersess Seminary's new 5.5 acre property, located in Armonk, NY, is completed and the Seminary has moved to the new facility.

By far, the biggest issue at the assembly was the topic of the Diocesan Bylaws. For the fifth consecutive year, there were lengthy discussions at the assembly concerning the proposed new Bylaws for the Diocese. There was a presentation by Zaven Tachdjian who represented the Diocese at the Ecclesiastical Representative Assembly (ERA) regarding the universal Bylaws for the global Armenian Church and a second presentation by Antranig Garibian of the Diocesan Council on the subject. It was explained that the National Ecclesiastical Assembly (NEA), the highest body in the Armenian Church, created the ERA and that all decisions of the ERA need to be followed by all Armenian Dioceses in the world. The discussion was lengthy, with many delegates expressing their views. It got very heated at times. There was much confusion among the delegates as to what the role of each group, NEA, ERA, and Supreme Spiritual Council is. The final outcome was that a standing committee of two clergy and three laymen were elected at the assembly to report back regularly to the assembly regarding the activities of both the NEA and ERA regarding their efforts to establish Bylaws for the global Armenian Church.

The Diocesan financial situation was in a state of transition in 2015. There is a new treasurer in the Diocesan Council, Roseann Attar, who is updating all procedures and controls at the Diocese. The accounting staff is in transition and it is expected that the financial reporting from the Diocese will be improving going forward. With that being said, the Diocese showed an operating loss in 2015 of $152,000 vs. a operating loss of $395,000 in 2014. The 2016 budget was revised to $4,840,604. A budget of $4,880,820 was approved for 2017. A concern is that the Diocese continues to be in debt, uses a line of credit with Citi Bank and that we continue to borrow from restricted funds. The current debt level is $1,551,000. The Diocese has a new Director of Development, Taleen Babayan, and a new Director of Administration, Dr. Armen Baibourtian.

Jim Kalustian, Chairman of the Diocesan Council, presented the Diocesan Council report and gave an update on the Diocesan Strategic Plan with the primary objective to support parishes in their goal to deepen the faith experience of the Armenian Church community. This will be accomplished in 6 areas which are as follows:

1. Enhancing the worship experience in our churches;
2. Enhancing our clergy;
3. Providing effective youth and young adult ministries;
4. Promoting Christian and Armenian education for all ages;

5. Providing outreach to all Armenians and their families;

6. Promoting the biblical concept of stewardship among the parishes.

There will be one area of focus in 2016, forgiveness and death and eternal life.

The Diocese has introduced a new video series, "Bread and Salt." Two videos in the new series were shown to the delegates. Other areas highlighted in the Diocesan Council report were that the Hye Pointe parish will start construction of a new church this month and will be selling the Haverhill church. The Diocese will be starting a 403B retirement plan for Diocesan employees. Also, there will be discussions of air rights at the Diocese where a modest building could be constructed to provide revenue for the Diocese. The Diocese will be embarking on a capital campaign with the goal to raise between 10 and 20 million dollars. Jim also discussed his address to the Prelacy assembly where he called for unity. There was strong cooperation during the 100th anniversary of the genocide and this is a logical next step. The Prelacy's response was to continue to have more cooperation. This was disheartening to hear. My opinion is that it sounds like a stall tactic on the part of the Prelacy and that they have no interest in unity.

The Diocesan legate, Archbishop Vicken Aykazian, gave an update on the situation

His belief is that within 20-30 years, there will be no Christians left in the Middle East.

in the Middle East. The situation is not good. There is still fighting in Artsakh. His belief is that within 20-30 years, there will be no Christians left in the Middle East. He has met with Speaker of the House Paul Ryan to explain the situation in Nagorno-Karabagh and the seizing of an Armenian Church in Turkey. Through the efforts of many church leaders, the State Department has recognized the killing of Christians in the Middle East as genocide. He encouraged all Armenians to be legates of the Armenian Church.

There was discussion regarding a proposal to change the Bylaws regarding the number of candidates a nominating committee needs to present for election on the parish level. Instead of a double slate, a slate of 50% more than need to be elected can be presented. This proposal passed in two consecutive years, 2014 and 2015, and was presented to the Catholicos for approval. It has been over a year and the Diocese has still not received approval.

Under new business, it was agreed that because parishes were not submitting monies due, each parish would receive a bill included with their Diocesan dues to allocate $250.00 each year for the ACYOA Central Council and Sacred Music Council.

A proposal was passed to request financials from the ERA which were presented at the last ERA assembly. A proposal was passed for the Diocese to have an observance on the National Day of Prayer.

Next year's Assembly will be hosted by St. Hagop Armenian Church in Pinellas Park, FL.

In conclusion, this year's assembly was a successful one. This is the 25th year I have been a delegate and, once again, I thank you for allowing me to represent our parish. If you would like any further details on any of the proceedings you may contact me directly.

Respectfully submitted,
Aram Hintlian
Diocesan Delegate

BLESSING OF THE BABIES

Postponed from a frigid February 14 to a snowy morning on April 3, our joyful Blessing of the Babies' Service took place at the conclusion of church services.

APRIL 17 EREVAN CHORAL SOCIETY CONCERT
"IN COMMEMORATION OF OUR SAINTED MARTYRS"

The opening of the centenary of the Armenian Genocide saw an extraordinary wave of commemorations. The closing of the year-long period has been more muted; the hopes for breakthroughs on recognition, never strongly entertained, continue to be deferred, while events on the eastern and western borders of the Armenian Republic and Artsakh, suggest a darker near future than Armenians had dared to hope for in April 2015. Yet the Armenian cause lives on, strengthened on many fronts by new voices.

Our former pastor, Fr. Mampre A. Kouzouian, opened the April 17 concert, held in the sanctuary, with an eloquent evocation of the dire situation in Artsakh. The extremely able keyboardist Nune Hakobyan performed on organ. Guest soloist David Ayriyan on kamancha, backed by Composer Konstantin Petrossian, music director and conductor on organ, thrilled the audience with a rendition of the traditional "Otar Amayee" and "Dle Yaman" that were breathtaking in their combination of complex ornamentation and exquisitely modulated tone. Mezzo-soprano Gohar Manjelian's moving rendition of the Gomidas "Karoon a" picked up the link between folk and composed traditions, while her rendition of "Tsayghkir Hayrenik" by Yervand Yerznkyan, a world premiere, demonstrated her ample range. Composer Petrossian once again demonstrated his compositional prolificacy with the choral "Vartanants Aspetner" while such relatively recent favorites as Krikor Pidedjian's setting of Kevork Emin's "Der Zor," Armen Smbatyan's "Hayastan," and Composer Petrossian's haunting and lyrical arrangement of "Akh, Vaspourakan" elicited an enthusiastic response.

Also reprising an innovation from the April 2015 Genocide Centennial Concert was a series of moving recitations of such giants of the modern Armenian repertoire as Baruyr Sevag, Eghishe Charents, and Hovhannes Tumanyan by senior Holy Trinity Armenian School students Adelaida Balagyozyan, Anna Margaryan, Anush Kirakosyan, and Amalia Petrosyan, as well as their younger colleagues Leila Belubekian, Marina and Lusine Gyulkhasyan, and Mary Gyulumyan. Interspersed with the musical numbers, the students' readings testified to the intertwined aspirations of Armenian music and letters so notable in the last century, a fate that will inevitably continue to be shared. By its nature, a commemorative concert reflects upon those who have left us. Since April 24, 2015, the victims of the Genocide have been recognized as sainted martyrs, witnesses to faith and nation whose celestial testimony will live on eternally; to them, voices are raised in prayer and gratitude.

The concert was dedicated to His Eminence Archbishop Yeghishe Gizirian of blessed memory. The Armenian community lost the one-time pastor of Holy Trinity and later Primate of the United Kingdom. No more will Yeghishe Srpazan's voice thunder in thrilling benediction. He was an indefatigable supporter, not only of Erevan Choral Society, but of all sorts of Armenian ministry, culture, and outreach and "a true spiritual father to his people," as Fr. Vasken A. Kouzouian so aptly named him. His example, and that of beloved departed founder of the Erevan Choral Society, the Very Rev. Fr. Oshagan Minassian (d. 2008), live on in the work of their epigones such as Fr. Vasken and Composer Petrossian who labor, in their turn, to pass the torch of Armenian culture on to the future, for all of our sakes.
